The last two weeks

- Method 1

- The first week you only reduce the scope of your endurance training.
- A week before the race you do a firm Fartlek training of 50 minutes.
- 1 or 2 days before the race you do an duration training on speed 1 or 2. Reduce the scope.
- A day before the race you run half-hour quietly. Do also some small accelerations.

- Method 2

The tapering-off period for the half marathon start two weeks before the race. The first week you only reduce the scope of your endurance training. The week for the race you do only 15 percent. These last week you do especially interval training on 3.1 miles (5 km) race speed and marathon speed.
